CE MARKING

On January 1, 1995 the European Directive No. 93/68/EC came into force under which the CE MARKING on all electrotechnical products will be compulsory as of January 1, 1997 to certify product conformity with community directives.

The CE MARKING is based on a brief statement by the manufacturer that its products comply with all applicable community legislation and provisions covering said products.

The CE MARKING on a product guarantees the installer with respect to all public authorities of all countries belonging to the European Union that said product complies with the applicable legislation concerning intrinsic product features.

Bocchiotti, in full compliance with Community directives, as well as always aware and compliant with new legal developments, is already authorized to mark its products with the CE MARKING as of January 1, 1995.
